

Skills for Success

Construction Trades

I attended the West Shore program my junior and senior year of high school, and graduated from Lakewood High School in 2014. I attended Bowling Green State University for 4 years and graduated with a degree in Construction Management. I am currently a Project Superintendent for a commercial general contracting company called Engelke Construction. To date, I have completed many jobs totaling millions of dollars all over the country. My favorite part of the West Shore construction class was receiving the opportunity to work hands-on and learn parts of the trades. There is a major shortage in manpower in the construction industry from apprentices all the way up to high end managers. This class allowed me to see that and come out of school making an honest living with great pay and benefits.
